Sirs:

In compliance with Section 2151.18 of the Revised Code we submit herewith the Annual Report of the Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court for the calendar year 1966, showing the number and kind of cases that have come before it, the disposition thereof ordered by the Court, and other data pertaining to the work of the Court of interest to you and to the general public.

Respectfully submitted,

Albert A. Woldman, Presiding Judge
The Juvenile Court of Cuyahoga County

Cleveland, Ohio
March 27, 1967

The year 1966, as is noted on the following pages of this report, was one which registered the highest volume of complaints in the Court's history. It was also one that was characterized by a number of significant measures to upgrade Court services.

Of primary importance was the appointment by Presiding Judge Albert A. Woldman of a Citizen's Advisory Board to The Juvenile Court. The Advisory Board was named to advise the court in meeting the complex problems facing it in light of the heavy demands being made upon it by the community. Chairman of the Advisory Board is Mr. Morris Berick, a former president of the Cleveland Bar Association. Mr. Doyle Shackelford serves as the Board's Secretary and liaison official with the court staff.

Toward the end of 1966, the Advisory Board secured a grant from the Greater Cleveland Associated Foundation and the Cleveland Foundation to finance a survey of the Juvenile Court by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency. It is expected that a preliminary report of the survey's findings will be presented to the Board by June, 1967, and that a final report will be prepared by the Fall of 1967.

The court looks forward to this aid in improving its services, and wishes to thank all the citizens who have given so generously of their time and talents in serving as members of the Advisory Board. In addition to the chairman, board members include: Mr. Paul Briggs, Superintendent, Cleveland School System; Mr. Ronald Brown; Mr. Crede Calhoun, Jones-Day-Cockley and Reavis; Mr. Neil Carothers, President, University Circle Development Foundation; Mrs. James A. Clark, President, Cleveland P.T.A.; Msgr. Casimir S. Ciolek, Assistant Director, Catholic Charities Bureau; Mr. A.F. Connors, Assistant Director, Public Relations, Republic Steel Corp.; Mr. Clarence Gaines, Director of Welfare, City of Cleveland; Mr. Wade Harris, President, Midland-Ross Corp.; Mr. Fred M. Hauserman, President, E.F. Hauserman Co.; Mrs. Gilbert Humphrey; Mr. Frank E. Joseph, Jones-Day-Cockley and Reavis; Mr. Bruce B. Krost, Senior Member, Woodling, Krost, Granger and Rust; Dr. Middleton H. Lambright; Mr. Raphael O. Lewis, former Executive Director, Community Action For Youth; Rev. Isaiah P. Pogue; Mrs. Frank H. Porter; Rabbi Rudolph M. Rosenthal, Temple on the Heights; Mr. Louis Seltzer; Mr. Curtis Lee Smith, Executive Director, Cleveland Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Herman Stein, Dean, School of Applied Social Sciences, Western Reserve University; Mr. Thomas Vail, Editor, The Cleveland Plain Dealer; Mr. Ben Zevin and the Rev. Roger S. Shoup, Associate Minister, Calvary Presbyterian Church.

Another major step in upgrading its operation was taken in the court's sponsorship of the "Improvement of Community Probation Services Program". The program, sponsored jointly by the Court and Cleveland College, Western Reserve University, is funded through the Federal Higher Education Act of 1965 to the Ohio State Board of Regents.

The aim of the program is to initiate a staff development program for probation officers and also to develop a training program for volunteers to assist the probation staff in certain court duties.

Since the Fall of 1966, the program has sponsored a series of seminars with court officials, Western Reserve University faculty members and Program Staff. Separate Seminar sessions were held with the Judges, Directors, Referees, Case Supervisors and with a selected group of probation officers. The seminars centered around a definition of the probation officer's job; the tasks and functions that he is expected to fulfill, and the seeking of possible alternative structuring of his work. Concomitantly, the seminars engaged in exploration of possible ways that a volunteer "paraprofessional" staff could be utilized within the court.

Guidelines for a training program for probation officers were developed from the seminars and were implemented by the attendance of twenty probation officers at twice weekly training sessions which were begun in February, 1967. Training of the volunteers has also begun.

Tentative plans for future operations include the strengthening of relationships between probation staff and community services. Within the Court, the staff development program would be extended, with attention given to a specialization of work among the probation staff. Andrew J. DeSanti, Assistant Chief Probation Officer, serves as Training Director for the program with Arden Melzer, Cleveland College, serving as program director. John J. Alden, Director of Social Services, served as liaison consultant between the court and the program.

Another advance in court services came through the establishment of Project Friendship Inc. Funded through the Cleveland Presbyterian Society of the United Presbyterian Church, the project uses volunteers to utilize a one-to-one relationship with selected delinquent girls. The Project offers empathy, understanding and guidance from the volunteer as a means of achieving self-confidence and positive values on the part of the delinquent girls. The United Church Women of Greater Cleveland have also joined the project, having two members on the Board of Trustees. There are 22 volunteers who offer their services to the court under the supervision of the project's trained caseworker, Mrs. Kenneth Slater, ACSW, who is also the Project's Director. Referrals to the Project are made by the Girls' Referee, Miss Wilma Sevcik who also serves as a member of the Project's Board of Trustees. Mrs. Charles Hall is president of the Project's Board of Trustees, and Judge Walter G. Whitlatch also serves as a member. In 1966, its first year of operation, the Project served 14 girls.

The Court takes this opportunity to publicly acknowledge and thank the Project's sponsors, volunteers and other staff for their generous service in a vital area of need.

Another area in which court services were expanded is the Group Psychotherapy program which saw the development of a girls' group in May, 1966. A group for boys has been in operation since 1963. The girls' group is staffed by Dr. Irving Berger as therapist, and Miss Frances Pitts, M.S.W., casework supervisor as co-therapist.

Another additional service developed in the Fall of 1966 occurred in the hiring of a teacher with the Bedford School system to serve as a part-time probation officer, serving children within that school district. Because of the relative newness of this project, no evaluation is available at this time.

The year 1966 saw the termination of the Court's participation in the Community Action For Youth Program. For the past three years, children living in the program's demonstration area who were ordered for probation services by the Court were placed under the direct supervision of Community Action For Youth probation officers. The program was designed to terminate at the end of 1966. All children then under the supervision of that program were transferred to the direct supervision of Juvenile Court probation officers.

In addition to expanding Court services, Presiding Judge Albert A. Woldman also took the lead in stabilizing the Court staff by establishing more equitable salaries. In his adjustment of salaries, which considerably increased an anachronistic pay scale, Judge Woldman set the pace for a graduated salary scale with acceptable ceilings to be realized by interim increments based on merit. To achieve this program, he has named Judge Walter G. Whitlatch, the Chief Administrative Assistant and the Budget Director to assist him in a full scale salary study.

The above programs and projects which the court is currently undertaking represent major efforts to upgrade the level of service and court operation consistent with its vital role of effectively dealing with youth and family problems.

Concomitant with the need to extend its services, the court was also faced with the necessity of improving its physical facilities. With the tremendous growth in volume and attendant increases in staff, the court buildings have become inadequate to properly house present operations. It is estimated that there is currently a lack of 20% in existing space requirements. However, within these limitations a re-alignment and relocation of certain departments was carried out by Building Director, Stuart S. Woldman. The changes made resulted in a consolidation of individual units with clusterings of related units so as to most effectively expedite the flow of work. The deployment of staff under such arrangements has permitted a single grouping of female probation officers on one floor of the main building with all male probation officers concentrated in the Cedar Avenue building. Also provided in the move were larger quarters for the Child Support Department which was shifted closer to the Cashier's Office with which it has frequent transactions. The Psychiatric and Psychological services were also re-located in a larger area, and four private interview rooms were added for the probation staff. Through the re-use of existing space, the Detention Home Activities Department obtained 1,100 more sq. ft. New jail cells for adult prisoners were also constructed in space vacated in the old Detention Home. And a general remodeling and renewal program was carried on which included the updating of nine classrooms and related teaching facilities in the Detention Home which were also equipped with modern furnishings. In addition, the entire Detention facility is being renewed and repainted in soft non-institutional pastel colors to complement the decor of the new Detention Annex.

While the work done has resulted in better use of existing space, the over-all space needs of the court remain critical. For example, by 1975, it is estimated that the court, based on the current deficiency of space, will need 50% more space than is currently available to handle anticipated caseloads and personnel.

The year 1966 was, therefore, a very busy one for the court, not only in terms of the amount of work before it, the highest in its history, but also in terms of planning for the future and the even heavier demands that are expected to be made upon it.

SUMMARY OF THE YEAR

During the year 1966 a total of 19,394 cases of all types under its jurisdiction were filed in the Juvenile Court. These cases represent a 4.4% increase over the 1965 volume of 18,573 and continues the rising trend of the past twenty-five years during which time case-loads have increased 237%.

DELINQUENCY CASES INCREASE 12%

Of the total volume of cases for the year, 7,296 were delinquency cases. There were 5,762 boys' cases and 1,534 girls' delinquency cases. Delinquency cases in 1966 increased 12% over the 6,505 recorded in 1965. Boys' cases in 1966 increased 12% over 1965 (from 5086 to 5762), and girls' cases increased 8% (from 1419 to 1534).

Other children's cases before the court included 7,390 juvenile traffic offenders, 183 neglected children's cases, 222 dependent children's cases, 141 neglected and/or dependent children's cases, 288 application to determine custody cases, 122 applications for approval of permanent surrender cases and 127 consents to marry. There were no significant changes in these types of cases compared with last year.

Adult cases before the court, including charges of non-support, neglect, contributing or tending to cause delinquency and paternity complaints showed an increase of 29 cases, going from 3,596 in 1965 to 3,625 in 1966. A total of 1,656 non-support charges were made, and 388 cases of neglect of minor children were recorded. In addition, 1,052 paternity complaints were made during the year. See Table 1 for breakdown of children's and adult's cases.

MOST FREQUENT OFFENSES

As in past years, the following charges were the most frequent against boys: unlawful entry and stealing, 723 cases (up 22% over the 592 cases of 1965); other thefts, 710 cases (about the same as the 702 cases in 1965); injury to person, 591 cases (up 15% over the 513 cases of 1965); incorrigibility, 573 cases (up 13% over the 505 cases of 1965); auto theft, 563 (up 17% over the 482 cases in 1965); and auto trespassing and tampering, 527 cases (up 14% over the 461 cases in 1965).

Girls, as in the past, were charged most often with the following offenses: incorrigibility, 550 cases (up 5% over the 524 cases in 1965); sex offenses, 255 (down 8% from the 277 cases in 1965); other stealing, 203 cases (up slightly over the 196 cases in 1965), and injury to person, 113 cases (down slightly from the 128 cases in 1965). See Table 2 for breakdown of offenses, 1966 compared with 1965.

Mention should be made here of the greatly increased charges involving drugs and narcotics violations. In past years, such charges were statistically low. However, in 1966, thirty-four minors were charged with drug offenses. Thirty-one of these cases were heard by the presiding judge who credited the suburban police departments of Cleveland Heights, Shaker Heights, University Heights and South Euclid with investigations which brought to light this serious problem. The inhaling of glue fumes is another offense which has increased in the past three years, going from 10 cases in 1964 to 70 cases in 1966.

DISPOSITIONS

Of the total number of the above new delinquency cases, 2,604 cases (1,953 boys and 651 girls) were placed under the supervision of the Court's Probation Department (included in this total are 94 cases which were accepted by private agencies and 123 boys and girls referred for placement in private residential centers. A total of 766 cases (676 boys and 90 girls) of the above new cases were at the time of the original hearing committed or returned to public correctional institutions. However, the total number of children committed to correctional institutions including those committed after previously receiving a non-commitment disposition, and those appearing on alias charges amounted to 1,020. These commitments were made as follows: the Ohio Youth Commission: 621 boys, 111 girls; Cleveland Boys' School, 165 boys; Blossom Hill School, 87 girls, and the Ohio State Reformatory, 36 boys. In addition, 328 cases (280 boys and 48 girls) were released to the supervision of their parents, 645 cases were either dismissed or withdrawn by the complainant, 16 boys' cases were transferred to the Court of Common Pleas and 1,556 cases (1,332 boys and 224 girls) were adjusted without further court action. See Table 3 for a breakdown of official and unofficial dispositions for boys and girls.

PROBATION CASELOADS

During the year, 4,924 cases were supervised by the Court's Probation Department. Of these 3,510 were delinquent boys; 1,241 delinquent girls and 173 were dependent, neglected and other types of cases. Of the total number of delinquency cases closed from supervision during the year, 73% of the boys and 68% of the girls were discharged from supervision as having achieved an adequate adjustment. Commitments to correctional institutions after unsuccessful probation efforts were necessary for 20% of the closed boys' cases and 14% of the closed girls' cases. Closings for other reasons, including loss of jurisdiction, abscondings etc., accounted for 7% of boys' cases and 13% of girls' cases.

Continuing the trend of the past few years, 72% of the total probation contacts with children on probation occurred as office contacts within the court buildings. Only 28% of probation contacts occurred in the field, reflecting the heavy demands of court schedules and probation supervision. Of the 44,321 office interviews, 21,395 or 48% were in the form of telephone contacts. During the year, the probation staff conducted a total of 6,912 investigations for court hearings requiring nearly 54,000 investigatory contacts. In the past five years, probation contacts and investigation interviews have increased 42%, going from a combined total of 80,754 in 1962 to 114,662 in 1966.

DETENTION FACILITIES

Detention facilities continued to be heavily used in 1966. While the average daily population of the Detention Home was 172 children, this yearly average was exceeded for 45% of the year during which time the average daily population was 196 children, 14% above the general yearly average (for 20% of the year, the population exceeded 196, ranging as high as 227 children). During the year, 4,219 children were cared for in the Home (3,012 boys and 1,207 girls) for a total of 62,732 days care. The average length of stay for delinquent boys was 14 days and for girls it was 17 days. See Table 9 for children under care in Detention Home.

OTHER CHILDREN'S CASES

Other children's cases before the court included 912 neglected and dependent children. Of these 496 were referred to the custody of child caring agencies. The Division of Child Welfare, Cuyahoga County Welfare Department received 439 children for temporary care and 44 children for permanent care of the above total of 496. In addition, 169 children were continued under the supervision of their parents and 56 were committed to the Probation Department for supervision or placement. Charges of neglect or dependency were dismissed concerning 84 children. Other children's cases included 122 applications for approval of permanent surrender and 288 applications to determine custody.

TRAFFIC OFFENDERS

Juvenile Traffic Offenders continued the high trend of the last few years, registering 7,390 in 1966 compared with 7,403 cases in 1965. In 1966, there were 6,718 boys and 672 girls filed on as traffic offenders. Speeding represented the most frequent violation for both boys and girls, representing nearly one-third of violations in both cases. For boys, the second most common violation was having no driver's license (10% of violations). For girls, failure to yield to other vehicles was the second most frequent violation, accounting for 11% of violations. Licenses were suspended in 44% of the traffic cases. In 23% of the cases driving was restricted to essential automobile usage.

ADULT CASES

Adult cases before the court amounted to 3,625 cases, a rise of 29 cases over 1965. The most frequent charge against adults was non-support of minor children (1,658 cases). Other charges included 1,052 paternity cases, 386 cases of contributing to neglect, 322 cases of contributing to delinquency and 28 cases of acting in a way tending to cause delinquency.

Of the adults charged with non-support, neglect and contributing to delinquency, 87 were committed to the Workhouse or County Jail. In addition, 853 fathers were ordered to support their minor children by payments made under the supervision of the Child Support Department.

During the year, the Child Support Department supervised 11,548 cases for payments, 9,361 of which were carried over from preceding years, 2,187 being received in 1966. These included 6,848 cases being followed for non-support payments, 948 cases involving payments in neglect and contributing to delinquency cases, and payments in 3,752 paternity cases.

Payments and disbursements of these monies were made through the Cashier's Office and amounted to $2,520,146.66 for the support of minor children, of which $2,309,366.11 was disbursed to the mother or relatives caring for the children, $107,650.51 was disbursed to tax-supported child caring agencies in whose care children were placed and $103,130.04 was disbursed to private child caring agencies and institutions.

Other monies collected by the Cashier's Office included more than $32,000.00 in damages and restitution in delinquency cases and a total of $101,068.72 in fines and costs. Total collections by the Cashier's Office in 1966 amounted to $2,775,055.22, an increase of 11% over 1965.

In addition to the 19,394 new cases accepted during the calendar year 1966 through the Court's Intake Department, a total of 969 alias cases were also set for hearing in 1966 by that department. An additional 2,073 other complaints were reviewed by Intake but not accepted for court action, being referred to social agencies, police departments, boards of education and other courts or services for action. See Table 11 concerning the Intake Department's report.

PSYCHIATRIC CLINIC

A total of 696 psychiatric examinations were conducted in 1966 by the Court Psychiatric panel. These included 444 boys, 206 girls and 46 adults. (See Table 13 for diagnoses made during the year).

Clinic Director, Oscar B. Markey, M.D., reported that "Though some statistical changes are evident, the nature of the studies made on the officially charged delinquent children brought to the Psychiatric Clinic in 1966, was essentially unchanged. Perhaps the incidence of organic factors was a bit higher this year (about 7½% as compared with the usual 5%), but it remains true that the vast majority of disturbances have arisen out of developmental and situational influences, chiefly within the family."

It was also reported that "Serious financial limitations have hampered recommendations for placement of children in need of special residential care. Both judges and psychiatrists have been forced to adjust to this limitation during much of the year. In essence, the psychiatrists continue to believe that children in need of special care which is available but costly should, nevertheless, have such treatment. This places upon the judges the ongoing necessity for seeking public funds in amounts necessary for the proper care of these children. Placement of children should not be based on cost primarily but on the medical recommendations which are best suited to a given child's needs."

"The Group Psychotherapy Program has been an important part of the Court effort to carry on treatment as one of its functions. The program has gone on for several years. It will be recalled that three-fourths of the 21 boys carried in this program in 1965 appeared to achieve maximum benefit. Unfortunately, workers who have been assigned to this program have moved on into supervisory and administrative functions, thereby restressing the perennial problem of finding good staff people. The administrative judge has been encouraging and the Director of Social Services has supported and sponsored the program, but it is always difficult to find new workers for this important facility. It is still evident that at least three M.S.W. caseworkers are needed to meet current demands."

"The newest report in November, 1966, tended to resemble the one in 1965. Seventy-two per cent of 29 boys treated achieved maximum benefit without further Court activity. The girls' group, which was formed in May of 1966, has been in operation too short a time to permit a definitive evaluation. None of these girls has been released after achieving maximum benefit. Three of the original eight girls have been released, two through pregnancy which had not been recognized as existing at the time of their joining the group, and the third because it was believed that she would do better in individual psychotherapy. These three have been replaced by three others."

PSYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT

In reviewing her department's activities during the past year, Ruth Glick, Ph.D. reports that it "Continues to operate under the handicap of a part-time staff," and that "The failure to recruit full-time, experienced psychologists is due to the limited professional opportunities inherent in an exclusively diagnostic clinic." The department in 1966 examined 487 individuals referred for psychological evaluation. In addition, 1,684 Detention Home children were tested in groups.

It was further reported that the department continues as an approved field practicum training center for graduate students in the doctoral program in psychology at Western Reserve University. In keeping with the university policy of appointing chief psychologists in the training center as associate members of its department of psychology, Dr. Glick carries both regular teaching responsibilities at the University and is supervisor of trainees in the court setting. Six students are presently in placement.

WILLIAM A. NESI NAMED CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

William A. Nesi was appointed by Presiding Judge Albert A. Woldman as Chief Administrative Assistant of the Juvenile Court. The appointment, made during the preparation of this annual report, was effective as of February 16, 1967.

Mr. Nesi assumed his post at the Court after leaving the position of Executive Secretary of the Lorain County, Ohio, Child Welfare Board, a post he held since 1962. He returns to the Juvenile Court, having served as a probation officer from 1940 to 1942 and as Referee for boys' cases from 1942 to 1944. Prior to 1940, Mr. Nesi had been a caseworker with the Cuyahoga County Child Welfare Board. From 1944 to 1946, he served in the United States Navy, returning to community service as Administrative Assistant with the Cleveland Rehabilitation Center. In 1947 he was appointed as Administrative Assistant with the Child Welfare Board of Cuyahoga County, serving there until 1950 when he became Superintendent of the Children's Receiving Home. He then served from 1954 to 1962 as Executive Secretary of the Division of Child Welfare (formerly the Child Welfare Board) of the Cuyahoga County Welfare Department.

As Administrative Assistant with the Division of Child Welfare, his chief responsibility was to found and establish the Children's Receiving Home. During his administration, as Executive Secretary of the Division, further expansion of services and facilities for children were accomplished. These included the establishment of the Division's Protective Service Unit in response to a Welfare Federation study related to the need for such a service, the assuming from the City of Cleveland of the operation of Cleveland Boys' School and Blossom Hill Girls' School and the administration of classes for mentally retarded children. He was also instrumental in founding and developing the Division's Girls' Group Home financed by the Shaker Heights Children's Guild and then donated to the County.

Mr. Nesi is vice-president and one of the founders of the Ohio Boys' Town and is past president of the Ohio Child Welfare Executives Association. Before leaving Cleveland, he had for many years served as a delegate to the Representative Assembly of the Welfare Federation and as a member of the Federation's Children's Council. Having served on the Board of Trustees of the Children's Aid Society for many years, he was named as a member of the Children's Aid Society Corporation.

He and his wife, Hilda, have one married daughter and two grandchildren.

JOHN J. ALDEN NAMED DIRECTOR OF SOCIAL SERVICES

John J. Alden, Chief Probation Officer, was named to succeed John J. Mayar as Director of Social Services upon the latter's resignation at the end of 1966. Mr. Alden holds a Master's Degree in Social Work from the University of Pittsburgh and has served the Court as probation officer, casework supervisor and Boys' Referee prior to becoming Chief Probation Officer in 1955.

Mr. Alden also observed in 1966 his twenty-fifth year of service with the Court, having first been employed in June, 1941 as a case worker with Aid to Dependent Children which was at that time a division of the Court.

He is a member of the Academy of Certified Social Workers - National Association of Social Workers. In addition to overseeing Court related services in the community, he serves on the following committees of the Welfare Federation of Cleveland: Occupational Planning Committee, Children's Council, Advisory Board and Allocations Committee to the United Youth Program. He is also the Secretary of the Public Assistance Examining Committee, representing the presiding judge. Mr. Alden and his wife, Katherine, have two children, Richard M., a senior at Case Institute of Technology and a daughter, Mrs. Frederick Finseth, a senior at Harvard Medical School.

Other new appointments during the year, included the naming of former case supervisor, Don B. Adamson, M.S.W. as superintendent of the Detention Home and Mr. William Dicken, M.S.W., former intensive probation officer, and Mrs. Patricia Alverson, M.S.W., also a former intensive probation officer as case supervisors. Mr. Charles Baxter a former probation officer was named Referee for Detention Home Intake. Mr. Pierce O'Connor and Herbert Palkovitz former Child Support workers were named Traffic Referees, and Mr. Andrew Ladika was named Bailiff to Judge Walter G. Whitlatch.

During the year, several veteran employees resigned from the Court, some to retire and some to seek new positions. Among those whose careers took them elsewhere was Mr. John J. Mayar who left his position of Director of Social Services to join the staff of the County Prosecutor. Case supervisor Lillian Hare resigned to accept a position as supervisor at Highland View Hospital. Probation officer, Amos Parker resigned to become Regional Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity in Alabama. And Mrs. Lucille Yaeger, assistant in the Personnel Department, retired with 46 years of service.

Mr. John F. Lyons resigned as Detention Home Superintendent to accept an administrative post with Marycrest School.

MILTON F. HAY, casework supervisor, observed in 1966, his twenty-fifth year of service with the Juvenile Court. He joined the staff as a probation officer on December 1, 1941. Prior to his appointment as casework supervisor in 1947, he served as Referee for Boys' cases for a three-year period.

He is a graduate of Wooster College and holds a Master's Degree from the School of Applied Social Sciences, Western Reserve University. While a student at Western Reserve University, he worked as a staff member at the Cleveland Boys' School.

Prior to joining the Court staff, Mr. Hay held several administrative positions, including the post of Director of the Federal Transients Bureau, Columbus, Ohio. He also served in the Work Projects Administration as Assistant Employment Manager and as Labor Relations Advisor for Cuyahoga County. Earlier, he had been a caseworker and supervisor in the Cuyahoga County Welfare Department.

Mr. Hay has long been a member of the Welfare Federation's Group Work Council and the Ohio Probation and Parole Association. The Court takes this opportunity to recognize Mr. Hay for his twenty-five years of service and for the high quality of his casework skills which he persistently displays in the supervision of his probation officers.

Presiding Judge Albert A. Woldman's article Juvenile Court - "Neglected Child" of the Judiciary was published in the September, 1966 issue of the Cleveland Bar Journal and attracted nation-wide interest. The associate judges have, as in the past years, continued to devote much of their personal time and talent to various community and state-wide organizations and undertakings.

JUDGE WALTER G. WHITLATCH continued to serve during the year as President of the Ohio Association of Juvenile Court Judges and as a member of the Youth Services Advisory Board of the Ohio Youth Commission. He is also vice chairman of the Federal Aid Committee of the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges. In addition, he also serves as a member of the following boards of trustees; Pennsylvania Junior Republic, Starr Commonwealth School for Boys, Van Wert, Ohio, DePaul Infant Home, Ohio Boys' Town, Ingleside Hospital and serves on the Board of Managers, Hillcrest YMCA. He is also a Neighborhood Commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America, and serves on the Board of Directors of the Ohio Citizen's Council. Judge Whitlatch also is a member of the Welfare Federation's Board of Trustees and its Central Planning Board and Juvenile Delinquency Committee.

In December, 1966 he served as General Chairman of the Conference on State Facilities for Delinquent Children which was presented at Western Reserve University in cooperation with the Ohio Association of Juvenile Court Judges. Judge Whitlatch was the author of text material on Juvenile Court which soon will be published in Baldwin's "Ohio Probate Manual". His paper, "The Juvenile Court - A Court of Law" will soon be published in the "Western Reserve Law Review".

JUDGE JOHN J. TONER was appointed in 1966 to the Ohio Judicial Conference as Chairman of the Family Law Section. In addition, he has continued to serve as chairman of the Family Law Committee of the Ohio State Bar Association. He also served as a member of the Board of Trustees, Community Action For Youth. The judge also continued as a member of the following boards of trustees: Marycrest School for Girls, Ohio Boys' Town, Catholic Counseling Center, Merrick House, Cleveland Neighborhood Centers Association and the Police Athletic League.

Judge Toner also remained active with the Children's Council and the Group Work Council of the Cleveland Welfare Federation. His article entitled, "Jurisdiction, Trends and Problems of the Juvenile Court" was published in Law and Fact, which is the official publication of the Cuyahoga County Bar Association. During 1966, as in the past years, he participated in many panel discussions, lectures and gave innumerable talks to various community organizations.

JUDGE ANGELO J. GAGLIARDO was named in 1966 as Chairman of the Time and Place Committee, National Council of Juvenile Court Judges. He also continued to serve on the boards of a number of community organizations, among which were The Alta Social Settlement, The Nationalities Services Center, St. Anthony's Home for Boys and the Police Athletic League.

The judge also served during the year as a member of the executive committee of the Group Services Council of the Welfare Federation and as Chairman of the State Services Committee of the Ohio Juvenile Court Judges Association.

In addition, the judge spoke to many civic organizations including the Cleveland Junior Chamber of Commerce, Cleveland Women's Lawyers' Association and the Radio-Television Council of Greater Cleveland. The judge also addressed the Men Assistant Principals group of the Cleveland Board of Education and appeared as a guest panelist on a televised discussion on unwed mothers and birth control.

The probation staff also fulfilled many speaking engagements, addressing for the most part interested groups within their individual districts of service. In addition two groups of probation officers participated in a training program sponsored by the Ohio Youth Commission. Ten probation staff members attended the Annual Ohio Probation and Parole Association Conference and ten attended the Annual Health and Welfare Institute of the Cleveland Welfare Federation. A Training Institute sponsored by the Ohio Probation and Parole Association at the University of Akron was attended by six staff members.

Two veteran staff members were cited for distinguished service to the community as recipients of the Public Service Award of the Cuyahoga County Bar Association. Mr. S.J. Berman, Paternity and Support Referee, was one of the 1966 recipients. And as this report was written, Mr. Ray C. Baesel, Boys' Referee, was named one of the 1967 recipients.

The Court would like to publically acknowledge and thank the service organizations and groups in addition to those previously mentioned that have in many ways aided it by offering assistance and programs for its wards. In particular, the Court is indebted to the University Circle Kiwanis Club which this year presented its twenty-fifth annual Christmas party for Detention Home children. During the past quarter century not only those children entertained each year have benefited from the Kiwanis programs but every child held there has in some way benefited from the Club's generosity in the form of serviceable items donated to the Home over the years. The Court is also grateful to the Cleveland Metropolitan Park Board which for several years co-sponsored with the Court a work-therapy program for boy probationers. This year, the Park Board offered jobs to 47 boys on probation. Processing for these jobs, which not only financially aid boys from low-income families but offered them good work habits, were handled by the Chief Probation Officer.

FURTHER INFORMATION AVAILABLE

This report has been prepared and is issued under the direction of the Honorable Albert A. Woldman, Presiding Judge of the Juvenile Court of Cuyahoga County. The Department of Research and Statistics, Richard A. Gallitto, Statistician, compiled the report. Citizens, students, and others who wish more particular information are invited to call at Room 310 where every effort will be made to give them courteous attention and service. It is hoped that this report may stimulate interest of the public in the services that the Juvenile Court provides the dependent, neglected, delinquent, and otherwise unfortunate children of the County; and that it will enlist their informed support and cooperation in extending and improving these services wherever needed.
